BEING TAKEN BY "MADAM BUTTERFLY" COMPANY.

Special Train of Six Coaches in Paducah Short Time This Morning.

The special train carrying the "Madam Butterfly" company was in Paducah for a few minutes this morning en route from Jackson, Miss. to Nashville. The train consists of six coaches, including one sleeper, a chair car, day coach and two baggage cars. The company makes several big jumps this week. The company left Jackson, Miss., last night at 6 o'clock, after playing only a matinee at that place. They show tonight at Nashville, Evansville tomorrow night, Paducah Friday night, and Memphis Saturday night. The company is making its southern tour over the lines of the Illinois Central as much as possible, which caused the train to come by Paducah in going to Nashville from Jackson.

Conductor J. C. Farabee, who formerly ran out of Paducah but now has a run on the Nashville and Evansville division, was here this morning to take charge of the train to Nashville.

THEATRICAL NOTES

Favorite Here Tonight.

The annual visit of Miss Florence Davis has become a theatrical event to be looked forward to by Paducahans. In "The Player Maid" and other pieces she has presented here, the clever actress one of the hardest workers and students on the stage, has set a standard of her own, and she is entitled to a good house tonight, when she presents, for the first time, "Divorcons, a Question of Husbands." Miss Davis always has a good company and her productions are well staged. She presents nothing but high class comedies.

"The Great Divide."

Ten days ago when Messrs. Carney and Goodman received contracts from the Shuberts for Henry Miller's company in William Vaughan Moody's successful drama, "The Great Divide," they found that the date assigned them was filled and that the terms of the contract required that notice of cancellation must be made four weeks in advance of the engagement. Mr. Carney was anxious to secure this greatest of recent plays for Paducah and being in New York at the time, called personally at the Shubert's office, where he succeeded in persuading them to assign Paducah another date. A wire from him this morning states that "The Great Divide" will be presented here Thursday, January 23. "The Great Divide," with Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin will easily be the biggest local offering of the year and the production ranks as the leading one of the season in the east. The local management is deserving of the highest praise for securing such an attraction.

"Madam Butterfly."

Walking Pair, Which Visited Paducah Arrived in Louisville, at Last.

Louisville, Jan. 15.—Louisville last night housed a close, but by no means boastful, rival of Weston O'Leary, and other champion walkers; but this one had none of the pride that the others showed in their profession, and he was not ashamed to declare that he looked upon the automobile as the nearest earthly resemblance to heavenly wings and even a plain mule and one horse shay as a thousand times better than the best walking boots or walking records. But that, perhaps, was due to the fact that he had his wife and thirteen-year-old son with him on his long walk from Memphis to Louisville.

The man, who gave his name as Paul Krumbach, and his companion as Jack of all Trades, stepped into the Manhattan restaurant at 502 West Jefferson last night, and ordered six regular suppers for himself, his wife and his little boy. Then he explained that he had walked from Memphis. It took him just three weeks and four days to make the trip and just twenty minutes and four seconds to eat his supper—his suppers. He had made from sixteen to twenty-three miles per day, he explained between mouthfuls, and had had "rough and muddy roads all the way."

He had come to look upon Weston and all the rest of the walking clan as so much misapplied energy, he said, and had grown to hate the sight of a shoemaker. During the trip he had worn out three pairs of shoes, his wife four and his son three. He said he would henceforth leave walking to professionals and "wearies," and that he would settle in Louisville and take up some trade—preferably that of shoemaking.

Their itinerary, he said had been as follows: Memphis, Ovington (Tenn.), Dyersburg, Qblen, Reves, Fulton, Mayfield, Paducah, Princeton, Henderson, Evansville, Henderson— Here Mr. Krumbach stopped abruptly and cast a look of silent reproach at his wife.

"Woman, thy name is vanity," he said. "That hundred-mile-for-nothing trip was all your fault; you would insist on seeing Evansville!"

From Henderson they had come along the railroad to Louisville. From beginning to end he said, they had found walking to be not what it was cracked up to be, and muddy cornfields or stony by-paths would henceforth be anathema to him and his for the rest of their lives. They had undertaken the long walk, not for pleasure, but to save expenses. He repeated sadly that he had forgotten the shoemakers.

SENSATION OF THE SALE

The price-cuts in this sale are genuine and include every department of the store. Nothing has escaped the sharp, decisive reduction-blade—absolutely nothing is reserved—never in the history of the Famous have such genuine bona-fide been offered the people of Paducah. The Famous stakes its reputation for far-reaching on the absolute truthfulness of every reduction here quoted.

It is against the policy of the store to carry over one season's goods to another, hence the tremendous reductions. Another reason for this sale—on account of the open winter we find ourselves overstocked in every department, and in order to reduce these stocks quickly every article has been cut from 40 per cent to 50 per cent. Let us insist that you come—those who delay are apt to meet disappointments.

THREE LINKS

BUILDING WILL BE REMODELED
SOON BY ODD FELLOWS.Woodmen of the World Probably Will Have Lodge Rooms There Too.

Since the Longfellow school building will be vacated as a school in February the Odd Fellows are taking hold of plans for the remodeling of the building for lodge purposes. Officers of the "Three Links" building committee met last night and discussed plans. Half of the space upstairs will be utilized as an assembly hall for the Odd Fellows. Before the hall can be used a partition wall will have to be removed and the building committee will get bids at once from contractors for the removing of the wall and making a nice hall. Bids will be opened January 23 and bids will be asked for the wiring of the building.

The Woodmen of the World have expressed a desire to have a lodge hall in the building, and last night the committee was empowered to close a contract with the lodge for a similar hall on the second floor of the building. After the second floor has been arranged the building committee will begin work of remodeling the lower floor for offices. Probably a new front will be put in. The treasurer of the Odd Fellows made a report last night and in the building fund the lodge had a good start and all of the debts have been paid. Those present last night were: Messrs. Gus G. Singleton, William H. Patterson, James Householder and Eli G. Boone, Representatives from other Odd Fellow lodges were: Messrs. William Morgan, Harry Judd, J. O. Keebler and Robert Connors.

BIG OPENING

GUTHRIE'S CHALLENGE SALE
PROVES GREAT SUCCESS.People Stand in Line, Waiting to Enter Door of Bargain Store of Broadway.

The opening of Guthrie's great Challenge Sale this morning was certainly a grand success. Even at the opening of the doors people were standing in line, awaiting their turn at the magnificent values which are being offered in every department.

No more forceful refutation of the hard-times bugaboo could have been possible than the eagerness with which Challenge Sale specialties were bought by shoppers with the bargain instinct. The enlarged sales force in every department were surrounded by a real, old-fashioned bargain rush but, in spite of the crowds, everyone received remarkably prompt attention.

Mr. Guthrie is naturally elated at the enthusiasm with which Paducah ladies are attending the sale on this, its first day, and promises them many more tempting values during the ten days which the sale is to endure. Frequent announcements of special offerings will be made in this paper.

SCHOOL NOTES

Supt. Carnegie has addressed the following communication to all the patrons of the public schools and given them to the pupils to be carried home to their parents:

To the Patrons:

The school board and the superintendent are very anxious to make the Paducah schools the best in Kentucky. We believe that your opinion on the following subjects will be helpful to us. Please to answer them to the best of your judgment and return the paper to the teacher. Be frank and give your honest opinion:

1. What is your main criticism on our schools?

2. Why do so many of our boys and girls quit school?

3. There is a growing demand over the country that manual training subjects, such as drawing, shop work, sewing and cooking, should be added to the work of the public schools. Do you think that our schools would be benefited by adding manual training subjects?

4. In what way, in your opinion, can we induce more boys and girls to go to the high school?

5. Do you think a course of study in bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting would be a good thing for our high school?

Grading of the yards around the new Jackson street school building and the North Twelfth street building will begin in a few days. The contract was let to Tom J. Evitts for the work. Fred Hoyer, superintendent of buildings, is having the new desks and seats placed in the Jackson street school and by the second semester every building will be ready for the school children.

LEADERS SUSPECTED OF A PRIMARY BILL COUP.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 15.—There are so many mysterious predictions regarding primary legislation that many suspect certain leaders of the assembly of a purpose to execute a coup that will bring swift results. It is confidently declared that a primary bill will be passed before the end of the week, and that the session will be closed Saturday. Yet nobody is able to give a convincing reason for this optimistic prophecy.

If no bill comes from the conference committee this week, an attempt will be made to adjourn sine die without passing a primary bill. But it is not believed that this attempt will succeed. The more probable course is that the assembly will remain here until a bill is passed.

"Boy," she breathed, and he arose swiftly.

"Cherry! When did you come?"

"Oh, days ago," she said, impatiently, "from Dawson. They told me you had struck it. I stood it as long as I could—then I came to you. Now, tell me about yourself. Let me see you first, quick!"

She pulled him towards the light and gazed upward, devouring him hungrily with her great, languorous eyes. She held to his coat lapels, standing close beside him, her warm breath beating up into his face.

"Well," she said, "kiss me!"

He took her wrists in his and loosed her hold, then looked down on her gravely and said:

"No—that's all over. I told you so when I left Dawson."

"All over! Oh, no, it isn't, boy. You think so, but it isn't—it can't be. I love you too much to let you go."

"Hush!" said he. "There are people in the next box."

"I don't care! Let them hear," she cried, with feminine recklessness. "I'm proud of my love for you. I'll tell it to them—to the whole world."

"Now, see here, little girl," he said quietly, "we had a long talk in Dawson and agreed that it was best to divide our ways. I was mad over you once, as a good many other men have been, but I came to my senses. Nothing could ever result from it, and I told you so."

OVER THE PARTY FENCE.

It's a mean proposition Kentucky Democracy has on her hands. No one can question the fact that the party is pledged to send Governor J. C. W. Beckham to the senate, since the party bound itself in every county of the state to abide by the result of the primary. That primary instructed every Democratic member of the legislature to support Beckham. It is fallacious to argue that, because a certain county gave McCreary a majority, the representative from that county must record the will of his own people. The organization of that county bound itself to abide by the result of the vote over the state when it entered the primary.

If that was the only question, it would be easily answered, but yesterday's vote indicates that it is not easy, and the senator from our own city was one of the bolters. Moreover, Senator Campbell's action seems to have met with the approval of the majority of his constituents, and his boldness in overleaping the bounds of party regularity, prove that political virtue is not always in adherence to discipline. With this precedent we may expect Senator Campbell frequently to jump the fence that separates good government from party fealty.

Senator Campbell's position is justified by the theory that an oath of office is an obligation superior to mere caucus dictation. Senator Campbell's authority for opposing Beckham for senator rests partly in the will of his constituents, and partly in the good of his constituents; for a man in public office must be guided as much by his conscience as by popular clamor. If Senator Campbell sees an opportunity to rid his party and his state of an incubus, and by creating a deadlock, can force Beckham to retire, thus destroying the last vestige of the machine that was rebuked last November, he will be doing a public service that will obscure his slight deviation from the rules of the game, since a violation of the rules is not so reprehensible when the cards are stacked, and most Democrats in Kentucky have come to believe that the political game in this state has been crooked.

But here's the point we wish to emphasize. Senator Campbell is a politician, and he is bound, in the strictest interpretation of the term, to play regularly, by the state primary laws. Yet, in order to cut the ever looked at when a bet is made, and they say they never reached twice the size of the pile and sized it up. This is the custom. When she reached forth her hand, she grasped the right number unerringly. This is considered the acme of professional finish, and the Bronco Kid smiled delightedly as he saw the wonder spread from the lookout to the spectators and heard the speech of the men who stood on chairs and tables for sight of the woman dealer.

For twenty minutes she continued, until the place became congested, and never once did the lookout detect an error.

While she was busy Glenister entered the front door and pushed his way back toward the theater. He was worried and distraught, his manner perturbed and unnatural. Silently and without apparent notice he passed friends who greeted him.

"What alls Glenister tonight?" asked a bystander. "He acts funny."

"Ain't you heard? Why, the Midas has been jumped. He's in a bad way—all broke up."

The girl suddenly ceased without finishing the deck and arose.

"Don't stop," said the Kid, while a murmur of dismay came from the spectators. She only shook her head and drew on her gloves with a show of ennui.

Gliding through the crowd, she threaded about aimlessly, the recipient of many stares though but few greetings, speaking with no one, a certain dignity serving her as a barrier even here. She stopped a waiter and questioned him.

"He's upstairs in a gallery box."

"Alone?"

"Yes'm. Anyhow, he was a minute ago, unless some of the rustlers has broke in on him."

A moment later Glenister, watching the scene below, was aroused from his gloomy absorption by the click of the box door and the rustle of silken skirts.

"Go out, please," he said, without turning. "I don't want company."

Hearing no answer, he began again, "I came here to be alone"—but there he ceased, for the girl had come forward

"There are three reasons why no effort was made sooner along this line," said Professor Clark. "One was that it was thought best to wait and see if the other county societies would be as ready to advance the money as Fayette. Another was the 'night riders.' Since these depredations have been carried on it is almost impossible to get insurance, and they do not feel like asking for advances when insurance cannot be obtained."

Professor Clark said that he did not think there was anything in the reports that some of the pooled tobacco in this county is being sold at the warehouses here. "Two of the warehouses," he said, "have assured me they will not receive Society of Equity tobacco, and the third is being closely watched."

Harmon in Race.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 15.—That former Attorney General Judson Harmon will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president of the United States was confirmed today in a statement made by John W. Hill, of this city. Mr. Hill said: "All I will say at this time is that we are working in the interest of Judge Harmon for president and have organized a committee of seventeen, of which I am chairman, to see what we can do."

Bert Johnson, supervisor of the county roads, went to Oak Station this morning to start a force of men to work placing a coat of tar and gravel on the new concrete bridge near that place. The bridge will be open for public use Friday.

Adjusting a Grievance.

The agitator appeared at the meeting of employees and requested a hearing.

"Don't you men know that you have a grievance?" he asked, having taken the floor.

"We do," responded the chairman. "We have a number, and you are the worst in the lot."

After a husky committee had tossed the agitator downstairs business proceeded.—Exchange.

Should your baby suffer? When he is fretful and restless, don't experiment on him and use any old thing your neighbor recommends. Buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, greatest known worm medicine and cure for all children's diseases. It is mild in its action, builds up the system, makes thin, puny babies fat. Mrs. J. C. Smith, Tampa, Fla., writes: "My baby was thin and sickly, could not retain its food and cried all night. I used one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and in a few days baby was laughing and happy and well."
